10-Year Program For Flood Curbs To Be Asked

WASHINGTON, July 24-President Truman will lay before the special session of Congress next Tuesday plans for a vast 10-year program, costing upwards of $10 billion, for control of floods and development of water resources in the nation's major river watersheds.

The President is expected to send the special message to Congress on this subject after calling attention to it as a vital need in person at a joint session of the Senate and House.

Mr. Truman will point to the need of immediate commencement on a coordinated program of river watershed development, not only to prevent disastrous and recurring floods, and to conserve the top soil of the nation's farmlands that annually is washed away into the sea, but for hydro-electric development essential to the nation's primary defense requirements.

Special stress will be laid on the requirements of vast new sources of electric energy for atomic plants and to turn the wheels of the aircraft and aluminum industries for the rearmament program.

STEEL PRICE BOOST

IT CANNOT be said that the new increase in the prices of finished steel of impending adjustments had been bruited about for several weeks. The increase is substantial, but it is not all. For ' a large number of steel users the boost comes on top of previous increases in dethe pricing system.

Earlier in the year a supreme court decision in the case of the government against the cement companies held that basing point price systems are illegal under the anti-trust laws. Under such systems delivered prices of a product are uniform throughout geographic areas, regardless of the distance the goods may actually be shipped.

While the steel companies were not involved in the case, they used the same kind of pricing system, and were advised to get rid of it forthwith. Accordingly they have been putting into effect a system of prices for steel placed aboard carriers at the mill, with the customer paying actual haulage from that point. As a result of the manner in which mill prices were chosen, and of the fact that much steel is not being delivered from the nearest mill, many customers found their delivered prices higher. Very few found them lower. The same is true of cement.

This revision of pricing already had been causing great commotion among steel users, before the increase in base prices. The fact that the price system re- became an ally of Roosevelt and vision was forced at such an inopport une time cannot be blamed, however, on anyone or anything except the leisurely pace of the wheels of justice. The basing point price case was brought by the government in 1936, and had been in the courts since

The assassin should have waited until he had achieved power and then he could have done it by a purge. An assassination is wrong; a purge is not wrong, because it is authorized by those who control the State. It is legalized.

Yet, I cannot help ruminating on the possibility of having saved maybe 22,000,-000 lives, at least, had someone succeeded mail per year, $5 in advance; Zones one and two, in assassinating Adolf Hitler prior to September, 1939. After that date, the killing would have served no purpose be cause honor would have required the German generals to go forward in spite of the fact that many regarded the enterprise as stupid, as the "Von Hassell Diaries" prove. When national honor is at stake, men comcaught the country by surprise, as talk mit all sorts of stupidities. They even go

> Stalin is not an assassin. He is the head of a state who orders political murders. He had most of the old Bolsheviks killed off, including every man who played a prime role in the revolution which brought him to power. No one knows precisely how the man-god Lenin died, but there are many reports and rumors which take on plausibility in view of Lenin's dislike for Stalin. Trotzky was, of course, murdered in Mexico by one of Stalin's assassins, as General Krivitzky was in the United States. Zinoviev, Kamenev, Bukharin, Radek, Tukhachevsky and thousands of others were killed by purges, after forced confessions. Stalin ordered the murders and he was applauded as a great statesman for it. By now North knew about his partner's two suits, so that he could safely try the 5-Hearts which he fitted so well. That contract was easy to make. In fact an extra was scored. Now see how badly the North-

There West went the limit to keep North from replying, in view of his fine diamond fit and his weakness in defensive strength. East got the cue and made it still tougher for South by going to 5-Diamonds. That left South no alternative but to double, giving his opponents a fine sacrifice result, as it was set only three.

STEEL PRICE BOOST

IT CANNOT be said that the new increase in the prices of finished steel caught the country by surprise, as talk of impending adjustments had been bruited about for several weeks. The increase is substantial, but it is not all. For ' a large number of steel users the boost comes on top of previous increases in delivered prices, resulting from revision of the pricing system.

Earlier in the year a supreme court decision in the case of the government against the cement companies held that basing point price systems are illegal under the anti-trust laws. Under such systems delivered prices of a product are uniform throughout geographic areas, regardless of the distance the goods may actually be shipped.

While the steel companies were not involved in the case, they used the same kind of pricing system, and were advised to get rid of it forthwith. Accordingly they have been putting into effect a system of prices for steel placed aboard carriers at the mill, with the customer paying actual haulage from that point. As a result of the manner in which mill prices were chosen, and of the fact that much steel is not being delivered from the nearest mill, many customers found their delivered prices higher. Very few found them lower. The same is true of cement.

This revision of pricing already had been causing great commotion a mong steel users, before the increase in base prices. The fact that the price system revision was forced at such an inopport un e time cannot be blamed, however, on anyone or anything except the leisurely pace of the wheels of justice. The basing point price case was brought by the government in 1936, and had been in the courts since

A TIME NOT TO DOUBLE THERE IS ONE TIME when it is unwise to make an informative or takeout double on a hand containing enough strength for it. That is when you hold a two-suited hand. Then it is better to show one of your two suits at once, by a bid of one more than necessary as a virtual one-time force upon your partner, if the hand is rich enough in total playing tricks. When the bidding comes around to you again, you can complete your two-suit story by bidding the other suit, if that is then advisable.

THE MORE TELEPHONES THERE ARE, THE MORE VALUE TO YOU

More than likely you have a telephone because you want to reach other people and allow them to reach you. Perhaps you have never stopped to consider it, but the more people you can reach, the more valuable your telephone service becomes.

If yours were the only telephone in the world it would be nothing but a museum piece. Connect it to one other telephone and it begins to have some use. Connect it to more and more telephones and it becomes more and more valuable.

Your telephone's value is increasing every day. During the past three years we have installed additional telephones in this area. And there are more to come, just as soon as we can provide the service.

3-Game Series Of Top Import

NEW YORK, July 24-The Red Sox and Cleveland clash in a double-header at Boston today, opening a three-game set which promises to be the most important series of the year in the American League.

This is the acid test for the Bosox, who now are in third place. As late as May 31 they were in seventh place, 11-1/2 games off the pace.

Now they have won 12 out of 13, including their last nine starts, and are only a game and a half off the pace. Today victory means more than ever because their opponents, the Indians, are the league leaders.

The game scheduled between the second-place Athletics and the Browns last night was rained out. If the A's should lose to Detroit today, and the Red Sox beat Cleveland twice, the Athletics, Red Sox and Indians all will be virtually tied for first place by nightfall.
